SUPERVISOR BIDDLE CONTINUES CONVERSATIONS ON REFORM AND CIVIC ENGAGEMENT WITH COMMUNITY GROUPS

Milwaukee, WI – Milwaukee County Supervisor Eyon Biddle, Sr., is continuing his dialogue with a variety of Milwaukee County residents.

Supervisor Biddle began the day today by addressing 25 students at ITT Technical Institute's American Government class. They discussed the overall logistics of county government, the many things he has done since being elected to the county board, and the 2012 county budget.

"It was a pleasure to stop by and see the many young people who are interested in learning and developing careers," Supervisor Biddle said. "I'm impressed by these students. They asked some great questions about Milwaukee County government. These are our future leaders and a valuable constituency group. Young people have to understand their importance, get involved, and make their voices heard by engaging in government and politics."

Supervisor Biddle also met with the Milwaukee Bar Association. He discussed his 'Ban the Box' resolution, which was recently adopted by the County Board, and other legislation pertaining to discrimination against individuals convicted of a crime. The County Board also voted to support a change in State law in the reporting of expungements to the public from the Department of Justice's Crime Information Bureau.
